Several female worker-related legal regulations
Legal documents

- Labor Code 2012
- Social Insurance Law 2006
- Documents guiding the implementation of these laws
Maternity Leave

Who is entitled with maternity leave:

- Female workers who are pregnant
- Female workers who give births
- Female workers who adopt children under 4 months old
- Female workers who have Intra-uterine devices inserted or use sterilization methods

Female workers who give births and adopt children under 4 months old must contribute to the social insurance for at least 6 months during the 12 month period before delivery or child adoption.
Benefits for pregnant female workers:

• To take leave of absences for 5 pregnancy check-ups
• To be assigned to less heavy work
• Not to be assigned to go on business trips at distant locations or work at night
• Not to be eligible for labor disciplines
• To have the right to unilaterally terminate or postpone labor contract
Maternity leave:

- 6 months (in case of twin or multiple birth, female workers are entitled to additional thirty (30) days leave for each additional child).

- 3 Conditions for early return to work: complete 4 month leave, health confirmation, employer agreement.

- Work should be ensured for female workers after maternity leave
Days of leave in cases of miscarriage, abortion or still birth:

- 10 days for under 1 month pregnancy
- 20 days for 1 month to under 3 month pregnancy
- 40 days for 3 month to under 6 month pregnancy
- 50 days for 6 month pregnancy or above
Days of leave to apply contraceptive methods:

• 7 days for insertion of intra-uterine device
• 15 days for applying sterilization methods

Including holidays, Tet holidays, weekends
Other benefits:

- One-time allowance: Female workers who give births and adopt children under 4 months old are entitled to one-time allowance of 2 month minimum wage.

- Leave for convalescence and recovery: Female workers who have weak health after delivery are entitled to 5-10 days of leave/year for convalescence and recovery; 25% minimum wage if staying at home, 40% minimum wage if staying at health facilities.

- Female workers who are raising children under 12 months are entitled to 60 minute paid break/day.
Female workers who take leaves to take care of sick children:

- 20 days/year: children under 3 years
- 15 days/year: children under 7 years
- To be entitled to 75% salary contributed to Social Insurance/26 days × actual days of leave
Responsibilities of employers:

• To organize OBGYN check-ups for female workers
• To ensure appropriate bathrooms & toilets
• To support in building kindergartens or providing kindergarten fees for female workers
Thank you!